BECOMING A SITE MANAGER

Useful School Subjects

- Wood technology gives you a good base to start from
- Maths – I use numbers and basic maths daily
- At my school we had a Social Skills class where we learnt about communicating and other social skills

“This has been very useful because I have to do a lot of face-to-face communication, talking and meetings. Presenting yourself well and building relationships is important in the construction industry”.

Q & A

MATTI CLARKE

SITE MANAGER

The FutureForce® Crew sat down with Matti to chat about his role...

→ HOW DID YOU GET THIS JOB? WHAT GOT YOU INTERESTED IN THIS CAREER PATH?

I worked here in my school holidays and when I finished school my dad told me I had a month to find a job otherwise I was coming to be a labourer. Turns out I did start as a labourer, and after about six months I was offered a building apprenticeship which I initially turned down. I continued to work and made friends with my colleagues so decided to give the apprenticeship a go. In my final year, I was working as a foreman on-site and I've now been fully qualified for a year and working as site manager.

→ WHAT DOES YOUR ROLE INVOLVE?

The role of site manager is very busy. I have the responsibility of running the whole site, which may be 10 people or even upwards of 50. I plan ahead for each team member, so they have a clear direction to follow with their work, and also for health and safety.

TOP CAREER TIP

FIRST IMPRESSIONS ARE IMPORTANT. AN EMPLOYER MIGHT DECIDE WHETHER TO GIVE YOU AN APPRENTICESHIP OR JOB BASED ON THE IMPRESSION YOU GIVE THEM

→ WHAT HAVE YOU LEARNT ON THE JOB?

I used to be a people pleaser and that just doesn't work in this role. You have to learn to say no, and to be strong and trust your gut.

→ WHAT DOES SOMEONE NEED TO KNOW WHEN STARTING OUT AT WORK?

Don't spend all your money! It's easy to blow it on buying takeaways or other unnecessary things. It's awesome to suddenly have money but hang on to some of it. Make a savings plan and set some financial goals.

SITE MANAGER

→ WHAT DO YOU WISH YOU KNEW WHEN YOU LEFT SCHOOL?

I thought school was so hard when I was there and I couldn't wait to leave, but now I would say... enjoy school! Keep in touch with your mates because they are a big part of your life for years and suddenly you don't see them once you start working. You might be physically tired and go through some tough times at work but try to make the effort, it's worth it.

→ WHAT SORT OF PERSON DO YOU NEED TO BE FOR THIS TYPE OF WORK?

To be a tradie you need to be a tough person, both physically and mentally, because the physical work can be challenging. It is also mentally tough to get out every day all day whatever the weather and conditions.

To be a site manager you need to be a mentally strong person because you make a lot of decisions and need to be able to trust yourself. You must be driven, a good leader and happy to back yourself because you are responsible for the work on the site.

→ WHAT DO YOU LIKE MOST ABOUT WORKING AT LIVINGSTONE?

I like the day-to-day challenges. I am a competitive person and I enjoy a challenge. The challenges amp me up and I enjoy overcoming a challenge and then starting over again the next day.

→ WHAT IS THE BEST CAREER ADVICE YOU HAVE EVER RECEIVED?

Take all opportunities given to you even if you don't think you're ready for them. Take the opportunities offered because they might not be there in six months' time. Whatever you do, whether you succeed or whether you fail, you'll be learning something.

→ WHERE WOULD YOU LIKE TO GO WITH YOUR CAREER?

Livingstone is forging a path for me and there is no reason why I wouldn't follow it. They're pushing me along quite quickly and there is a future for me in the company. I'm happy to roll with the management decisions and move up the ladder.

WHAT DO YOU DO AT WORK?

7am to 10am

I open the site and do prestart meetings with the team. I organise people into their routines and help them set their goals for the day. If I have time I try to catch up on paperwork before a 10am break.

10.15am to 2pm

Administration and paperwork time. This is generally a quieter time for me, but I may still be interrupted or pulled out onto site to help or solve problems.

2pm to 5.30pm

Planning and organising people for the next day.
